

Ioana Agache, MD, PhD is Professor of Allergy and Clinical Immunology at Transylvania University, Brasov, Romania and Past President of the European Academy of Allergy and Clinical Immunology (EAACI) 2017-2019.

Her research in the field of Asthma and Allergy and Clinical Immunology focused on asthma phenotypes and endotypes, immune modulation and immune tolerance and integrated management of allergic diseases, with a special focus on primary care and community pharmacists.

Ioana Agache is leading the EAACI guidelines on Biologics and is a member of the Steering Committee and co-author of several international and European Guidelines, such as ARIA (Allergic Rhinitis and its impact on Asthma), EAACI Allergen Immunotherapy Guidelines and EAACI Food Allergy and Anaphylaxis Guidelines.

She is Editor of several books: Implementing Precision Medicine in Best Practices of Chronic Airway Diseases (2018) Global Atlas of Asthma (2013), Global Atlas of Allergy (2014), Global Atlas of Allergic Rhinitis and Chronic Rhinosinusitis (2015), Associate Editor of Clinical and Translational Allergy and a member of the Editorial Board for Allergy and Clinical Immunology. Ioana Agache graduated with a medical degree from "Carol Davila" University, Bucharest and absolved Magna Cum Laude her PhD in Internal Medicine.