

Tove Agner, MD PhD

Tove Agner is a professor at the University of Copenhagen and a consultant for the Department of Dermatology at Bispebjerg Hospital in Copenhagen, Denmark. She researches skin barrier function with a special interest in contact dermatitis and atopic dermatitis—especially hand eczema, including irritant contact dermatitis and hand eczema caused by or aggravated by occupational exposures. Dr. Agner leads a research group with several PhD students at Bispebjerg Hospital and has co-authored more than 200 scientific papers registered in PubMed.