

Johannes Ring, Prof., Dr. med., Dr. phil. is former professor of dermatology and allergy-immunology, and director of the Department of Dermatology and Allergy Biederstein, TUM School of Medicine. Prof. Ring was director of TUM's dermatological and allergy clinic Am Biederstein for nearly 20 years, specializing in allergies and inflammatory skin diseases. During this time, he and Prof. Heidrun Behrendt worked together to establish the Center of Allergy & Environment (ZAUM) at TUM and developed successful patient training courses for atopic dermatitis and anaphylaxis. In total, Johannes Ring published more than 600 original academic works and 400 reviews, as well as 25 books and monographs. During his many years as university dean of studies, he had a significant impact on studies in the School of Medicine. At the same time, Johannes Ring organized numerous international further development conferences and events, such as the World Allergy Congress 2005 in Munich, which attracted 7,000 participants. He was and still is a member of board of management of important professional societies, such as the European Academy of Dermatology and Venereology (EADV) and the Collegium Internationale Allergologicum; and serves as president of the German Society for Allergology and Clinical Immunology (DGAKI) and vice president of World Allergy Organization (WAO) boards of management. Most recently he was appointed editor in chief of the Journal of the EADV.